

Daniel 7:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him.

Analysis

The phrase "one like the Son of man" literally means "like a son of humanity"—someone with human form. This contrasts sharply with the bestial kingdoms preceding this vision. While "son of man" can simply mean "human being," Jesus' repeated self-identification as "the Son of Man" (used 80+ times in the Gospels) deliberately invokes this Daniel passage, claiming identity as the divine-human Messiah who receives eternal dominion.

"Came with the clouds of heaven" associates this figure with divine presence—clouds throughout Scripture signify God's glory. His coming "to the Ancient of days" depicts divine investiture—the Son receives authority from the Father. This scene portrays the Messiah's exaltation and coronation, receiving universal dominion from God the Father.

He receives "dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him"—universal, eternal reign transcending ethnic boundaries. This prophecy finds fulfillment in Christ's ascension, present reign at the Father's right hand, and future return "coming in clouds with great power and glory."

Historical Context

This vision was received during Belshazzar's reign (circa 553 BC). Jesus' consistent self-designation as "the Son of Man" explicitly claimed this identity. When interrogated by the high priest (Matthew 26:63-64), Jesus responded: "Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven"—directly quoting Daniel 7:13. The Jewish leaders understood this as a blasphemous claim to divine authority.

The early church applied this prophecy to Christ's present reign and future return. Stephen's martyrdom vision (Acts 7:56) saw "the Son of man standing on the right hand of God."

Study Questions

1. How does Jesus' self-identification as "the Son of Man" demonstrate His claim to be the divine-human Messiah prophesied by Daniel?
2. In what ways is Christ's kingdom currently being manifested, and how will it be fully revealed at His return?
