

Deuteronomy 1:31

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And in the wilderness, where thou hast seen how that the LORD thy God bare thee, as a man doth bear his son, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place.

Analysis

The image of God bearing Israel 'as a man doth bear his son' reveals divine paternal care and sovereign providence. The Hebrew 'nasa' (carried/bore) conveys sustained support through trial. This metaphor anticipates the New Covenant reality where believers are adopted as sons (Galatians 4:5-7). God's fatherhood is not merely benevolent but covenantal—He commits to preserve His people through the wilderness until reaching the promised inheritance. This demonstrates the Reformed doctrine of perseverance of the saints.

Historical Context

Recalls Israel's 40-year wilderness journey from Egypt to Moab (circa 1446-1406 BC). Despite divine provision—manna, water from rock, pillar of cloud/fire—the first generation failed to trust God's promises and died in the wilderness. This verse reflects Moses' reminder to the second generation of their fathers' unbelief at Kadesh-barnea (Numbers 13-14).

Study Questions

1. How does God's fatherly care during Israel's wilderness wandering deepen your understanding of divine providence in trials?
2. In what ways does this verse challenge you to trust God's sustaining grace rather than your own strength?
