

Deuteronomy 11:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

A land which the LORD thy God careth for: the eyes of the LORD thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.

Analysis

The land is described as one 'which the LORD thy God careth for' using the Hebrew darash (דָּרַשׁ), meaning to seek, inquire after, or care for diligently. This isn't passive observation but active providence. The phrase 'the eyes of the LORD thy God are always upon it' indicates continuous divine attention from 'the beginning of the year even unto the end.' This anthropomorphic language emphasizes God's personal, ongoing involvement. However, verse 13-17 clarify this care is conditional on covenant obedience—blessing for faithfulness, curse for idolatry. Divine providence operates within covenant framework.

Historical Context

This divine care distinguished Israel from surrounding nations whose gods required constant appeasement but offered no reliable providence. Baal worship, dominant in Canaan, claimed the storm god controlled rain—but Yahweh demonstrates He alone governs weather. The agricultural calendar (Gezer Calendar, c. 925 BC) shows year-round agricultural activity requiring divine blessing at each stage: plowing, sowing, harvesting, pruning.
