

Deuteronomy 12:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And ye shall overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves with fire; and ye shall hew down the graven images of their gods, and destroy the names of them out of that place.

Analysis

The destruction must be thorough: 'ye shall overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves with fire; and ye shall hew down the graven images of their gods, and destroy the names of them out of that place.' This specifies complete eradication of idolatrous infrastructure. The Hebrew verbs are violent: natats (נָתַת, overthrow/break down), shabar (שָׁבַר, shatter), saraph (שָׁרַף, burn), gada (גַּדֵּע, cut down), abad (אָבֹד, destroy). Even the 'names' must be destroyed—eliminating all memory and association. This reflects ancient concept that names carry power and presence. Destroying the name means obliterating the deity's cultural influence.

Historical Context

The 'pillars' (matsevot, מִצְבָּות) were standing stones marking sacred sites. 'Groves' (asherim, אֲשֶׁרִים) were wooden poles or living trees sacred to Asherah. 'Graven images' (pesilim, פְּסִילִים) were carved idols. Archaeological excavations at Canaanite sites (Hazor, Megiddo, Gezer) have uncovered such cultic installations. Israel's partial obedience left high places that repeatedly ensnared them (Judges 2:1-3; 1 Kings 14:23). Josiah's reform (2 Kings 23) finally attempted comprehensive purging, but too late to prevent exile.
