

Deuteronomy 12:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But unto the place which the LORD your God shall choose out of all your tribes to put his name there, even unto his habitation shall ye seek, and thither thou shalt come:

Analysis

The positive command contrasts with verse 2-3's destruction: 'unto the place which the LORD your God shall choose out of all your tribes to put his name there...shall ye seek, and thither thou shalt come.' This introduces worship centralization—one authorized sanctuary where God places His Name. The Hebrew maqom (מִקוֹם, place) will be specified later as first Shiloh, then Jerusalem. The phrase 'to put his name there' indicates divine presence and authorized worship. Unlike Canaanite worship at multiple sites wherever deemed sacred, Israelite worship must occur at God's chosen location. This centralization would unify the nation and prevent syncretistic corruption.

Historical Context

During wilderness period, the Tabernacle moved with Israel. After conquest, it rested at Shiloh (Joshua 18:1; Judges 18:31; 1 Samuel 1-4) for approximately 300 years. After Philistines captured the ark and destroyed Shiloh (Jeremiah 7:12-14; Psalm 78:60), David brought the ark to Jerusalem, and Solomon built the Temple there (2 Chronicles 6:5-6). Jerusalem became the permanent 'place which the LORD chose.' This centralized worship prevented tribal fragmentation and maintained covenant purity (mostly—high places persisted despite Jerusalem Temple).

Study Questions

1. How does worship centralization (one authorized location/means) differ from modern religious pluralism?
2. What does God 'choosing' the worship location teach about divine prerogative versus human religious innovation?
3. How does Jerusalem Temple typology point to Christ as the ultimate 'place' where God meets His people?
