

Deuteronomy 13:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

If there arise among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder,

Analysis

If there arise among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder,

This chapter addresses false prophets who perform signs (ot, עֹתָה) or wonders (mophet, מֹפֵת). The Hebrew terms indicate miraculous phenomena—not necessarily tricks but possibly genuine supernatural events. The shocking reality: miracle-working doesn't authenticate divine messengers. Even false prophets may perform signs. The test isn't power but doctrine—do they 'speak to turn you away from the LORD your God' (v.5)? Miracles confirm truth but don't establish it; Scripture judges all claims. This warns against being deceived by supernatural displays lacking doctrinal fidelity.

Historical Context

Egypt's magicians replicated some of Moses's miracles (Exodus 7:11-12, 22; 8:7), showing Satan can empower counterfeits. Jesus warned: 'false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect' (Mark 13:22). Paul prophesied the antichrist would come 'with all power and signs and lying wonders' (2 Thessalonians 2:9). Church history confirms this—charismatic false teachers lead many astray through supernatural phenomena. Discernment requires testing doctrine against Scripture, not just observing power.
