

Deuteronomy 13:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Ye shall walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye shall serve him, and cleave unto him.

Analysis

The positive command: 'Ye shall walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye shall serve him, and cleave unto him.' This fivefold description defines authentic faith: walk after God (follow His ways), fear Him (reverent awe), keep commandments (obey stipulations), obey His voice (responsive hearing), serve Him (devoted worship), cleave to Him (covenant loyalty). The Hebrew dabaq (דָּבָק, cleave) describes marital fidelity—exclusive, enduring attachment. True faith is comprehensive devotion, not partial or selective. This contrasts with false prophecy's appeal to novelty or experience; authentic faith maintains covenant loyalty regardless of circumstances or competing claims.

Historical Context

This echoes the Shema (Deuteronomy 6:4-5) and reiterates covenant relationship's core. Following God means rejecting all alternatives—no religious pluralism or syncretism. Israel's history demonstrates failure: they repeatedly 'went after other gods' (Judges 2:12). Apostasy begins with divided affections. Jesus later declared: 'No man can serve two masters' (Matthew 6:24). Covenant relationship demands exclusive loyalty. The early church faced similar challenges—Judaizers, Gnostics, emperor worship—requiring unwavering commitment to apostolic doctrine.
