

Deuteronomy 2:26

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth unto Sihon king of Heshbon with words of peace, saying,

Analysis

---

Moses' message to Sihon—'Let me pass through thy land'—models diplomatic engagement before warfare. The promise 'I will go along by the high way, I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to the left' offers peaceful passage with clear boundaries. The willingness to 'buy meat... and give me water for money' shows honorable intent—commercial transaction, not exploitation. Warfare should be last resort, not first option, when peaceful alternatives exist.

Historical Context

This echoes Israel's earlier request to Edom (Numbers 20:17). The 'king's highway' was a major north-south trade route through Transjordan. Moses' reasonable request demonstrated that Israel's conquest was divinely directed—they only fought when necessary, respecting neighbors where God commanded and engaging enemies only when attacked or divinely authorized.
