

Deuteronomy 2:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Ye have compassed this mountain long enough: turn you northward.

Analysis

The command 'Ye have compassed this mountain long enough' combines assessment (enough circling) with directive (turn northward). God's 'enough' marks the end of one season and the beginning of another. The directive to turn 'northward' points toward Canaan, resuming the interrupted mission. This reveals God's redemptive purposes—discipline is temporary and purposeful, not permanent or vindictive. God always has a 'next step' for His people.

Historical Context

Mount Seir was the territory of Edom (Esau's descendants). Turning northward meant skirting Edom's eastern border and heading toward Moab, bringing Israel progressively closer to the Transjordan region they would eventually possess before crossing into Canaan.
