

Deuteronomy 2:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Ye shall buy meat of them for money, that ye may eat; and ye shall also buy water of them for money, that ye may drink.

Analysis

The command 'Ye shall buy meat of them for money... buy water of them for money' institutes commercial rather than combative relations with Edom. Israel must purchase provisions despite being God's chosen people, teaching humility and respect. The ability to buy implies Israel had acquired wealth (from Egypt and spoils), which they should use righteously. This models ethical conduct even toward those outside the covenant community.

Historical Context

This contrasts with God's provision of manna and water in the wilderness. As Israel approached inhabited regions, they would increasingly need to engage in normal economic activity. The shift from miraculous provision to marketplace purchase prepared them for life in Canaan.
