

Deuteronomy 22:21

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Then they shall bring out the damsel to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die: because she hath wrought folly in Israel, to play the whore in her father's house: so shalt thou put evil away from among you.

Analysis

Then they shall bring out the damsel to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die—the death penalty for proven premarital unchastity, executed at the father's house to symbolize familial shame. Saqal ba-'avanim (סִקְלָה בְּאָבָנִים) "stone with stones") was Israel's standard capital punishment method, requiring community participation and public witness.

Because she hath wrought folly in Israel—nevalah (נְבָלָה), "folly") denotes morally outrageous conduct, covenant-breaking wickedness that threatens community integrity (Genesis 34:7; Joshua 7:15). To play the whore in her father's house—liznot (לִזְנוֹת, "to play the whore") emphasizes the sin occurred while under parental authority, compounding the offense. So shalt thou put evil away from among you—bi'arta ha-ra' (בִּעֲרָתָה הָרָעָה, "purge the evil") is Deuteronomy's repeated formula for capital punishment, emphasizing communal holiness through removing covenant-breakers.

Historical Context

This severe penalty reflects several realities:

1. premarital sex violated covenant standards of sexual purity symbolizing Israel's exclusive relationship with Yahweh
2. the deception entering marriage under false pretenses broke covenant faith
3. the father's household bore responsibility for the daughter's conduct
4. communal holiness required removing persistent covenant-breakers.

The New Testament's mercy toward the adulterous woman (John 8:1-11) doesn't nullify God's hatred of sin but reveals Christ bearing the penalty sinners deserve, fulfilling the law's demands through substitutionary atonement. Modern Christians rightly emphasize redemption over execution while affirming the law's testimony to sin's seriousness.

Study Questions

1. How does the severity of this punishment reveal the seriousness of sexual sin as covenant-breaking rather than mere private behavior?
2. How does Christ's mercy toward sexual sinners (John 8:1-11) fulfill rather than contradict the law's demand for holiness?
