

Deuteronomy 24:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Remember what the LORD thy God did unto Miriam by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt.

Analysis

Remember what the LORD thy God did unto Miriam by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt. Miriam's leprosy served as warning against rebellion. When she and Aaron challenged Moses' authority (Numbers 12), God struck her with leprosy, demonstrating the seriousness of challenging divinely appointed leadership.

The command remember makes Miriam's judgment perpetual teaching moment. Future generations must recall that rebellion against God's appointed authorities brings divine discipline. Memory of past judgments should prevent repeating past sins.

The timing by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt emphasizes that even privileged, redeemed people face discipline for sin. Redemption from Egypt did not exempt Miriam from consequences when she rebelled.

This demonstrates that physical affliction can serve as divine judgment and teaching tool. While not all suffering indicates personal sin, some does - Miriam's leprosy directly resulted from her rebellion.

Historical Context

Miriam was Moses' sister and a prophetess who led worship after the Red Sea crossing. Her high position did not protect her from judgment when she challenged Moses' unique prophetic role.

Aaron participated in the rebellion but escaped leprosy, possibly because he repented more quickly or because his priestly role prevented ceremonial defilement that would halt his service.
