

Deuteronomy 28:54

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye shall be evil toward his brother, and toward the wife of his bosom, and toward the remnant of his children which he shall leave:

Analysis

The man that is tender among you, and very delicate—Hebrew rāk and ‘ānōg (ךָק וָעֵג) describe a refined, upper-class man unaccustomed to hardship. His eye shall be evil (תְּרֵא עֵינָו, tērā’ ‘ēnō) is an idiom meaning 'he will look grudgingly/greedily'—he will refuse to share even human flesh with his brother... the wife of his bosom... his children.

Siege conditions would so degrade humanity that the most refined gentleman would become a selfish cannibal, hoarding his own children's flesh. This describes moral collapse: family bonds dissolve, love dies, and survival instinct overrides all humanity. The phrase because he hath nothing left him shows that starvation reduces even the noble to beasts. This happened repeatedly in Israel's history.

Historical Context

During the 900-day Leningrad siege (WW2), similar moral collapse occurred—a modern parallel to ancient sieges. In 2 Kings 6:28-29, two women made a pact to eat their children. Josephus records cases during the Roman siege where families turned on each other for scraps of food.
