

Deuteronomy 29:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day.

Analysis

Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day. Despite witnessing unprecedented miracles, Israel lacked spiritual understanding - they saw physically but not spiritually. This reveals that external evidence alone cannot produce genuine faith; internal illumination is required.

The threefold description - heart to perceive, eyes to see, ears to hear - emphasizes comprehensive spiritual blindness. Heart represents understanding, eyes represent insight, ears represent receptivity. Israel possessed all physically but lacked them spiritually.

The statement the LORD hath not given indicates that spiritual perception is divine gift, not human achievement. People cannot generate spiritual understanding through intellect or observation alone; God must grant illumination.

This anticipates New Covenant promise - I will give them a heart to know me (Jeremiah 24:7). Only divine action can cure human spiritual blindness and deafness.

Historical Context

Despite seeing plagues, Red Sea crossing, manna, and God's glory on Sinai, Israel repeatedly doubted and rebelled. External miracles without internal transformation do not produce lasting faithfulness.

This explains why the exodus generation died in the wilderness - they saw but did not truly perceive, heard but did not truly understand.
