

Deuteronomy 30:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the LORD thy God will circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live.

Analysis

And the LORD thy God will circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live. This crucial verse promises internal transformation - circumcise thine heart - pointing beyond external covenant sign to inner spiritual reality. Circumcision of flesh symbolizes cutting away sin's domination from the heart.

The declaration that the LORD...will circumcise identifies this as divine work, not human achievement. People cannot circumcise their own hearts; God must perform this spiritual surgery. This anticipates New Covenant promise of new heart and new spirit (Ezekiel 36:26).

The result of heart circumcision is to love the LORD...with all thine heart - producing wholehearted devotion previously impossible under external law. Internal transformation enables genuine obedience from renewed affections.

Paul later contrasts physical circumcision with circumcision of the heart by the Spirit (Romans 2:29), identifying this as the mark of true covenant membership.

Historical Context

Old covenant prophets recognized Israel's persistent hard-heartedness despite possessing external covenant signs. Jeremiah condemned Israel as having uncircumcised hearts (Jeremiah 9:26).

This promise awaited New Covenant fulfillment through Spirit's regenerating work in believers, producing internal change enabling genuine love and obedience.
