

Deuteronomy 30:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And thou shalt return and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day.

Analysis

And thou shalt return and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day. Restoration involves not merely geographical return but spiritual renewal - return and obey the voice of the LORD. True restoration requires both external circumstances and internal transformation producing obedience.

The phrase obey the voice personalizes relationship with God. This is not merely following rules but hearing and responding to God's personal address. Covenant relationship involves ongoing communication and responsive obedience.

The scope all his commandments demands comprehensive obedience. Selective compliance while ignoring challenging commands doesn't fulfill covenant obligations. Wholehearted obedience encompasses all God's revealed will.

The phrase this day emphasizes present-tense obedience. Restoration isn't merely past event but ongoing commitment to faithful living in response to God's continuous guidance.

Historical Context

Post-exilic Judaism showed mixed results - initial enthusiasm under Ezra and Nehemiah but gradual decline into formalism. External restoration of land and temple occurred without complete heart transformation.

This demonstrates that physical restoration without spiritual renewal fails to fulfill God's ultimate purposes. Only New Covenant transformation produces lasting faithfulness.

Related Passages

Romans 2:1 — Judging others

Revelation 20:12 — Judgment according to deeds

Study Questions

1. What does spiritual renewal involving obedience teach about true restoration?
2. How does obeying God's voice differ from merely following rules?
3. Why must restoration include comprehensive obedience to all commands?
4. What does present-tense obedience teach about restoration as ongoing commitment?
5. How did post-exilic Judaism demonstrate the inadequacy of external restoration without heart change?

Interlinear Text

וְאַתָּה ה	תָּשׁ וּב	וְשָׁמַעְתָּ	בְּקוֹל	יְהוָה	וַעֲשֵׂה יְת
H859	And thou shalt return	and obey	the voice	of the LORD	and do
	H7725	H8085	H6963	H3068	H6213
כָּל	מִצְוֹתַי	אֲשֶׁר	אֲנִי	מֵצִוְיָ
H853	H3605	all his commandments	H834	H595	which I command
	H4687			H6680
הַיּוֹם:
thee this day
H3117

