

Deuteronomy 32:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Because I will publish the name of the LORD: ascribe ye greatness unto our God.

Analysis

In the Song of Moses, he declares: 'Because I will publish the name of the LORD: ascribe ye greatness unto our God.' The verb 'publish' (Hebrew qara) means proclaim, announce, or call out—public declaration of God's name (character/reputation). Moses calls the audience to 'ascribe greatness'—attribute to God His rightful glory and honor. The song that follows (Deuteronomy 32:4-43) rehearses Israel's history and God's faithfulness, demonstrating why He deserves proclamation and praise. Worship begins with recognizing and declaring God's character.

Historical Context

The Song of Moses served as Israel's witness against future apostasy (Deuteronomy 31:19-21). When Israel rebelled, this song would testify to God's faithfulness and their faithlessness. Moses taught the song to all Israel (Deuteronomy 31:22), ensuring memorization and transmission. The song is quoted in Romans 10:19, 12:19, and 15:10, and echoed in Revelation 15:3. Its enduring message: God's character deserves proclamation, and His dealings with humanity vindicate His justice.
