

Deuteronomy 32:39

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

See now that I, even I, am he, and there is no god with me: I kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal: neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand.

Analysis

See now that I, even I, am he, and there is no god with me (רָאוּ עַתָּה כִּי אֲנִי אֲנִי) (הוּא וְאֵין אֱלֹהִים עִמָּדִי)—the emphatic 'ani 'ani hu (I, even I, am He) asserts absolute monotheism. The doubled pronoun intensifies God's unique identity; hu (He) recalls "I AM" (Exodus 3:14). Isaiah echoes this: "I am he; before me no god was formed, nor shall there be any after me" (Isaiah 43:10). This isn't henotheism (acknowledging other gods exist but choosing one) but radical monotheism—no other gods exist, period.

I kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal (אֲנִי אֶחַיֶּה וְאֶמֶת וְאֶחַיֶּה וְאֶמֶת) (אֶחַיֶּה וְאֶמֶת וְאֶחַיֶּה וְאֶמֶת)—God possesses absolute sovereignty over life and death (amit, kill; 'achayeh, make alive), destruction and restoration (machatzti, wound; 'erpa, heal). Hannah's prayer echoes this: "The LORD kills and brings to life" (1 Samuel 2:6). Neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand (וְאֵין מִי שֶׁיִּצִּיל) (וְאֵין מִי שֶׁיִּצִּיל)—no power can rescue from God's judgment. This terrifies the impenitent but comforts believers: the hand that wounds also heals; the God who judges also saves.

Historical Context

This verse is among Scripture's clearest monotheistic declarations, foundational for Jewish (Shema: Deuteronomy 6:4), Christian (1 Corinthians 8:4-6), and Islamic theology. Ancient Near Eastern polytheism divided power among specialized deities—gods of death, healing, war, fertility. Moses declares one God controls all domains, all history, all destinies. The verse appears in later Jewish liturgy and rabbinic discussions of divine sovereignty versus human free will.
