

Exodus 12:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

This month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you.

Analysis

The Hebrew 'rosh chodashim' (רֹאשׁ חֳדָשִׁים) designates this as the 'head of months,' establishing Abib (later called Nisan) as the first month. This reordering of the calendar signifies that redemption creates a new beginning—salvation reorders all of life. The old Egyptian calendar is superseded by a calendar centered on God's saving act.

Historical Context

Abib/Nisan falls in March-April. Previously, Israel likely followed Egypt's calendar which began with the Nile flood season. This new calendar would permanently mark time by the exodus event.

Study Questions

1. How does your conversion to Christ serve as a 'new beginning' that reorders your priorities and perspective?
2. In what ways do you mark time by God's redemptive work in your life rather than by worldly calendars?
