

Exodus 13:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And thou shalt shew thy son in that day, saying, This is done because of that which the LORD did unto me when I came forth out of Egypt.

Analysis

The instruction to 'shew thy son in that day' establishes intergenerational transmission as central to faith. The explanation 'because of that which the LORD did unto me' makes past event personal present reality—not distant history but formative identity. The phrase 'when I came forth out of Egypt' uses first person, requiring each generation to personally identify with the exodus. This pedagogical design ensures continuity.

Historical Context

This command formed the basis of Jewish Passover liturgy where each participant is to consider themselves personally delivered from Egypt. The Haggadah states: 'In every generation each person must regard himself as if he personally came out of Egypt.'

Study Questions

1. How do you make Christ's redemption a 'me' event rather than distant historical fact?
2. What intentional methods do you use to teach the next generation to personally identify with gospel redemption?
