

Exodus 16:28

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the LORD said unto Moses, How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?

Analysis

And the LORD said unto Moses, How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?—God's question 'How long' (עַד־אָנָה, ad-anah) expresses divine grief at persistent disobedience. The plural 'ye' indicts the entire community for some members' sin—corporate responsibility. 'Refuse' (מִאֲנִיתֶם, me'antem) indicates willful rejection, not ignorant mistake. This rhetorical question previews Israel's chronic rebellion that culminates in 40 years' wilderness wandering. The phrase 'my commandments and my laws' before Sinai shows God's moral order existed prior to formal law-giving. Sabbath-breaking becomes paradigmatic sin: rejecting God's rest reveals hearts that prefer works-righteousness to grace. God's grief here prefigures Christ's lament: 'how often would I have gathered you...and ye would not' (Matt 23:37).

Historical Context

This divine rebuke occurred before the formal giving of the law at Sinai, showing that Sabbath observance was expected based on creation order and immediate instruction.

Study Questions

1. Why is refusing rest (Sabbath-breaking) paradigmatic of all sin against God's provision?
2. How does God's grief at persistent disobedience reveal His desire for our trust and rest?
