

Exodus 16:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And Moses and Aaron said unto all the children of Israel, At even, then ye shall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt:

Analysis

At even ye shall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt—Moses promises two-fold vindication: evening meat and morning bread will prove God, not Moses, orchestrated the exodus. The Hebrew יָדָע (yada', 'to know') indicates experiential knowledge—Israel will know by tasting God's provision. The sequence (evening quail, morning manna) shows God answers even unrighteous prayers, though the quail later comes with judgment (Num 11:33). God's glory appearing 'in the morning' connects to Christ as the 'dayspring from on high' (Luke 1:78) and resurrection morning when God's glory definitively appeared.

Historical Context

Moses speaks prophetically, as neither quail nor manna had yet appeared. His confidence rests entirely on God's promise, modeling the faith Israel should have shown.

1. How does God's provision of even unrighteous requests reveal His patience with our immaturity?
2. What does 'knowing experientially' through provision teach about faith versus mere intellectual assent?
