

Exodus 19:22

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And let the priests also, which come near to the LORD, sanctify themselves, lest the LORD break forth upon them.

Analysis

And let the priests also, which come near to the LORD, sanctify themselves, lest the LORD break forth upon them.

Even priests, though closer to God than laity, must consecrate themselves—proximity intensifies responsibility. 'Which come near' (הַגַּשְׁׁיִם, haniggashim) describes priestly function—approaching God on behalf of others. 'Sanctify themselves' (יִתְקַדֵּשׁ, yitqaddash) is reflexive—they must actively pursue holiness. 'Lest the LORD break forth' (יִפְרֹץ, yifrotz) uses the same verb as people 'breaking through' (v. 21)—God may 'break out' in judgment against those who 'break in' presumptuously. This seems to refer to pre-Aaronic priests (perhaps firstborn sons), since the Aaronic priesthood hasn't yet been formally instituted. Privilege demands purity; access requires consecration.

Historical Context

The mention of priests before the Aaronic priesthood's formal institution (Exodus 28-29) suggests an earlier system, possibly firstborn sons serving as family priests. Ancient Near Eastern priests always underwent purification before serving deity.

Study Questions

1. Why do those closer to God (priests, leaders) face stricter judgment for irreverence?
2. How does the requirement for priests to sanctify themselves apply to Christian ministers and leaders?
