

Exodus 2:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Then said his sister to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee?

Analysis

Then said his sister to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee? (הֲאֵלֶךְ וְקָרָאתִי לָךְ אִשָּׁה מִיִּשְׂרָאֵל, ha'elekh vekarati lakh ishah meineqet)—Miriam's boldness and presence of mind are remarkable. She seizes the moment, offering a practical solution that will reunite Moses with his mother. A nurse of the Hebrew women is brilliant strategy: Hebrew women are available and willing (unlike Egyptian women who might refuse), and it allows the child to be nursed by his own mother while in royal protection. God uses Miriam's quick thinking to perfect His plan. This is faith in action—seeing God's providential opening and stepping through it.

Historical Context

Wet nurses were common in the ancient world, especially in royal households. Egyptian art depicts nurses caring for noble children. That Pharaoh's daughter accepts a Hebrew nurse suggests pragmatic need outweighed prejudice—or perhaps God inclined her heart. Nursing typically lasted 2-3 years (cf. 2 Samuel 4:4), giving Jochebed time to instill Hebrew identity.
