

Exodus 26:30

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And thou shalt rear up the tabernacle according to the fashion thereof which was shewed thee in the mount.

Analysis

Summary command: 'rear up the tabernacle according to the fashion thereof which was shewed thee in the mount.' The Hebrew תָּקַם (taqim, 'rear up') means to establish, set upright, bring to standing. Construction must match the heavenly pattern exactly. This echoes the chapter's beginning and Hebrews' emphasis—earthly worship copies heavenly reality (Hebrews 8:5). We don't invent worship patterns; we replicate what God reveals, ultimately fulfilled in Christ.

Historical Context

Moses received comprehensive instructions during forty days on Sinai (Exodus 24:18), possibly including visual revelation of the heavenly sanctuary. This verse ensures he understands that precise replication, not creative interpretation, is required.

Study Questions

1. Why must worship 'match the pattern' shown rather than reflect human creativity?
2. How does understanding Christ as the 'heavenly pattern' affect your approach to worship?
