

Exodus 28:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And thou shalt make upon the breastplate two rings of gold, and shalt put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.

Analysis

Two gold rings attach to the breastplate's top corners, connecting it to the ephod via golden chains. Rings represent continuity—no beginning, no end. Gold rings create permanent attachment points. The connection between chest (heart) and shoulders (strength) shows priestly ministry flows from love and power united. Christ doesn't minister from strength alone or love alone, but both together in perfect harmony.

Historical Context

The rings (תְּבָאֹת, taba'ot) were likely cast gold, soldered to the breastplate's corners. Their circular form created ideal connection points—flexible yet secure, allowing movement without separation.

Study Questions

1. How does Christ's ministry combine emotional care (heart) with powerful action (shoulders)?

2. What does permanent connection (rings) teach about unbreakable priestly representation?
