

Exodus 32:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.

Analysis

The people 'rose early' (וַיַּעֲשְׂרִים, vayyashkimu) showing enthusiasm for false worship contrasted with sluggishness toward God. They offered עֹלָת (olot, burnt offerings) and שְׁלָמִים (shelamim, peace offerings)—legitimate sacrificial terminology applied to illegitimate worship. The phrase 'sat down to eat and drink' followed by 'rose up to play' (לְצַחֲקָה, letzacheq) uses a word suggesting immoral revelry (same root as Isaac's name, but here meaning carousing or sensual play), indicating the worship degenerated into drunken, possibly sexual, pagan celebration like Egyptian festivals.

Historical Context

This scene mirrors Canaanite and Egyptian fertility festivals where worship included feasting, drunkenness, and sexual immorality. Paul references this event in 1 Corinthians 10:7 as a warning against idolatry.
