

Exodus 36:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they spake unto Moses, saying, The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work, which the LORD commanded to make.

Analysis

The craftsmen report 'The people bring much more than enough' (מְרַבִּים לְפָבִיא מִדֵּי)—literally 'exceeding to bring more than enough for the service.' This abundance demonstrates that when God's people give from stirred hearts, He ensures more than sufficient provision for His purposes. The phrase 'much more than enough' reflects gospel mathematics where God's provision always exceeds mere adequacy—baskets of fragments after feeding multitudes (Mark 6:43), 'able to do exceeding abundantly above all we ask or think' (Ephesians 3:20).

Historical Context

This unprecedented situation—stopping offerings due to excess—stands unique in biblical history. It demonstrates that the golden calf generation, properly turned back to God, could give as enthusiastically for true worship as they had for idolatry (ch. 32).

Study Questions

1. What does the abundance of offerings teach about God's provision when His people give willingly and generously?
2. How does this 'more than enough' principle appear throughout Scripture in God's provision for His purposes?
