

Exodus 39:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper: they were inclosed in ouches of gold in their inclosings.

Analysis

The fourth row—beryl (תַּרְשִׁישׁ, tarshish, aquamarine), onyx (שׁוֹהַם, shoham), and jasper (יָשָׁפֶה, yashpneh)—completes the twelve. Each stone being 'inclosed in ouches of gold' (מִשְׁבָּצוֹת זָהָב, mishbetsot zahav, gold filigree settings) signifies that individual tribes exist within the golden framework of God's covenant. The gold settings prevent the stones from being lost, teaching eternal security—God preserves His elect. Jasper's opacity contrasts with beryl's translucence, showing tribal diversity. The breastplate's cumulative beauty prefigures Revelation 21:19-21, where the New Jerusalem's foundations bear precious stones.

Historical Context

Gold filigree settings (ouches) secured each stone and enhanced its beauty through contrast. This technique, well-developed in ancient metallurgy, ensured the stones remained in place despite the high priest's active ministry. The gold framework unified the diverse stones into a cohesive whole.

Study Questions

1. How do gold settings 'holding' the stones illustrate God's sovereign preservation of His elect?
2. What does the New Jerusalem's gem-adorned foundations reveal about God's eternal purpose for His people?
