

Exodus 4:27

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the LORD said to Aaron, Go into the wilderness to meet Moses. And he went, and met him in the mount of God, and kissed him.

Analysis

And the LORD said to Aaron, Go into the wilderness to meet Moses. And he went, and met him in the mount of God, and kissed him (וַיֹּאמֶר יְהוָה אֲלֵךְ אֶל-אַהֲרֹן לֹא—) God orchestrates the brothers' reunion. Go into the wilderness to meet Moses—divine instruction coordinates their meeting. They meet at the mount of God (הַר קָדְשָׁה כָּלָה, בְּהַר קָדְשָׁה כָּלָה, Horeb/Sinai), where Moses encountered the burning bush (3:1). And kissed him (וַיַּשְׁקַל) —ancient Near Eastern greeting showing affection and reconciliation. Forty years separated, the brothers reunite for shared mission. Aaron's willingness to follow divine instruction and his glad reception (4:14 promised he'd "be glad in his heart") show genuine humility—no jealousy that his younger brother leads. This reunion models ideal ministry partnership: divinely orchestrated, mutually supportive, mission-focused.

Historical Context

Moses and Aaron hadn't seen each other since Moses fled Egypt 40 years prior. That they reconnect at Horeb (where Moses received his call) sanctifies their partnership—beginning at the place of divine revelation. Their cooperation would prove essential through Exodus-Leviticus-Numbers, though not without tensions (Numbers 12, 20). The kiss of greeting reestablishes brotherhood before commencing the Exodus mission.

Study Questions

1. How does the brothers' reunion at 'the mount of God' teach about grounding ministry partnerships in divine calling rather than mere human affinity?
2. What does Aaron's glad-hearted submission to his younger brother's leadership teach about humility in ministry relationships?
