

Ezekiel 10:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the cherubims lifted up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheels also were beside them, and every one stood at the door of the east gate of the LORD'S house; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above.

Analysis

The cherubim "lifted up their wings...and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above." This describes the shekinah glory departing from the temple—the most tragic moment in Israel's history. God's presence had dwelt in the tabernacle and temple for centuries, but persistent sin drove Him away. The phrase "glory of the God of Israel" emphasizes covenant relationship being severed through unfaithfulness. This departure anticipates the temple's destruction (586 BC) and warns that religious structures without God's presence are empty shells. The Ichabod principle appears: "The glory is departed from Israel" (1 Samuel 4:21).

Historical Context

This vision occurred in 592 BC, six years before Jerusalem's final destruction. Ezekiel witnessed God's glory leaving the temple in stages—from the Holy of Holies to the threshold (10:4), to the east gate (10:19), and finally to the Mount of Olives (11:23). This gradual departure demonstrated God's reluctance to abandon His people despite their persistent idolatry. Archaeological excavations of Jerusalem reveal the temple's magnificence, making its desolation even more poignant. The glory's departure explains why the second temple (rebuilt after exile) lacked the shekinah presence until Jesus—Immanuel, God with us—walked its courts (Matthew 1:23).
