

Ezekiel 16:53

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

When I shall bring again their captivity, the captivity of Sodom and her daughters, and the captivity of Samaria and her daughters, then will I bring again the captivity of thy captives in the midst of them:

Analysis

When I shall bring again their captivity (שוב שְׁבוּת, shuv shevut)—this phrase means to restore fortunes, reverse captivity. God promises future restoration for Sodom and her daughters and Samaria and her daughters, with thy captives in the midst of them indicating Jerusalem's restoration will occur alongside theirs, not privileged above them.

This verse introduces the gospel reversal: grace extends beyond covenant Israel to Gentiles (Sodom represents Gentile wickedness). Romans 11 develops this theology—Jewish hardening brings Gentile inclusion, and Israel's eventual restoration will occur alongside redeemed Gentiles. The phrase in the midst of them suggests Jerusalem won't be exalted above restored Gentiles but joined equally in God's mercy. This prepares for verses 60-63, which promise a new everlasting covenant superseding Sinai.

Historical Context

This restoration prophecy looks beyond the historical return from Babylonian exile (538 BC) to eschatological restoration in Christ's kingdom. 'Sodom's restoration cannot be literal (the city was obliterated), thus pointing to spiritual restoration of Gentiles from every nation. The New Testament reveals this mystery—Gentiles included in God's covenant people through Christ (Ephesians 2:11-22; 3:6).
