

Ezekiel 18:28

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Because he considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live, he shall not die.

Analysis

'Because he considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live, he shall not die.' Genuine repentance involves consideration (ra'ah—seeing, understanding) and turning (shuv—repenting). It's not merely emotion but thoughtful recognition of sin and deliberate change. 'Turneth away from all his transgressions'—comprehensive repentance, not selective reform. The verdict: certain life. God's grace extends to all who truly repent.

Historical Context

This principle underlies all biblical calls to repentance from the prophets through John the Baptist to Jesus and the apostles. Repentance requires both recognition of sin and turning to God. True repentance produces changed life (fruit worthy of repentance—Matthew 3:8, Luke 3:8).
