

Ezekiel 20:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Because they had not executed my judgments, but had despised my statutes, and had polluted my sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers' idols.

Analysis

'Because they had not executed my judgments, but had despised my statutes, and had polluted my sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers' idols.' The cause of exile reiterated: despising law, polluting Sabbaths, following ancestral idols. 'Their eyes were after their fathers' idols' shows they repeated rather than learned from previous generations' errors. Generational unfaithfulness compounds when each generation follows predecessors' bad examples.

Historical Context

The Deuteronomistic History (Joshua-2 Kings) documents how each generation often 'did evil in the sight of the LORD' like their fathers. The northern kingdom's persistent Jeroboam-instituted calf worship (1 Kings 12:25-33) and Judah's recurring high place worship demonstrate stubborn pattern-following despite prophetic warnings.
