

Ezekiel 21:17

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I will also smite mine hands together, and I will cause my fury to rest: I the LORD have said it.

Analysis

'I will also smite mine hands together, and I will cause my fury to rest: I the LORD have said it.' God Himself smites hands together—divine version of Ezekiel's prophetic sign (verse 14). 'I will cause my fury to rest' indicates judgment will satisfy divine justice. When God's wrath is fully poured out, it will 'rest' (nuach—settle, be satisfied). 'I the LORD have said it' guarantees fulfillment. God's word settles the matter.

Historical Context

After Jerusalem's complete destruction (586 BC), a form of God's wrath 'rested'—the threatened judgment was fully executed. The city, temple, and monarchy were destroyed as warned. Later restoration came only after the decreed 70-year exile period (Jeremiah 25:11-12, 29:10).

Study Questions

1. What does it mean that God's fury will 'rest' after judgment is complete?
2. How does the finality of God's word ('I the LORD have said it') provide both warning and certainty?
