

Ezekiel 23:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they shall come against thee with chariots, wagons, and wheels, and with an assembly of people, which shall set against thee buckler and shield and helmet round about: and I will set judgment before them, and they shall judge thee according to their judgments.

Analysis

And they shall come against thee with chariots, wagons, and wheels describes siege engines and military technology of Babylonian warfare. And with an assembly of people indicates massive troop numbers. Which shall set against thee buckler and shield and helmet round about details complete military encirclement —defensive equipment becoming offensive as soldiers surround the city. And I will set judgment before them, and they shall judge thee according to their judgments declares God delegates to Babylon execution of His judicial sentence. God's sovereignty extends over pagan kingdoms; He uses their judgments to accomplish His justice. This is compatibilism: human agency (Babylon judges) and divine sovereignty (God sets judgment before them) working simultaneously without contradiction.

Historical Context

Babylonian siege warfare was sophisticated: battering rams, siege towers, earthen ramps, and complete encirclement to starve cities into submission. Archaeological evidence from Lachish and other sites confirms devastating effectiveness of these methods. Jerusalem's walls were eventually breached after prolonged siege.
