

Ezekiel 24:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I the LORD have spoken it: it shall come to pass, and I will do it; I will not go back, neither will I spare, neither will I repent; according to thy ways, and according to thy doings, shall they judge thee, saith the Lord GOD.

Analysis

"I the LORD have spoken it: it shall come to pass, and I will do it; I will not go back, neither will I spare, neither will I repent; according to thy ways, and according to thy doings, shall they judge thee, saith the Lord GOD."

This verse piles up emphatic declarations—"I have spoken," "it shall come to pass," "I will do it"—guaranteeing fulfillment. "I will not go back, neither will I spare, neither will I repent" (three negatives) emphasizes irrevocable commitment. "According to thy ways" establishes perfect justice—measure-for-measure judgment matching sin's severity.

Historical Context

Every prophetic detail came true exactly as declared—Jerusalem fell (586 BC), temple burned, population exiled. God's word proved utterly reliable. The triple negative emphasized that no intercession, diplomacy, or strategy could reverse decreed judgment. This fulfilled word established that God means what He says—both judgment warnings and later restoration promises proved equally certain (Ezekiel 36-37).
