

Ezekiel 24:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For her blood is in the midst of her; she set it upon the top of a rock; she poured it not upon the ground, to cover it with dust;

Analysis

Her blood is in the midst of her; she set it upon the top of a rock—the metaphor shifts from the rusty pot (verses 3-6) to Jerusalem's brazen display of bloodguilt. Blood poured upon the top of a rock (עַל־צֶחִיַח סֵלָא, al-tzechiach sela) remains visible, unabsorbed, crying out. By contrast, she poured it not upon the ground, to cover it with dust—violating Leviticus 17:13's command to cover shed blood with earth.

The uncovered blood symbolizes Jerusalem's unrepentant violence (Ezekiel 22:3-4). While Leviticus covered sacrificial blood out of reverence for life (נֶפֶשׁ, nefesh), Jerusalem flaunted innocent blood, displaying murder proudly. Genesis 4:10 warns: 'Your brother's blood cries to me from the ground.' Jerusalem's blood screams from exposed rock, demanding divine vengeance.

Historical Context

Pre-exilic Jerusalem saw epidemic violence: child sacrifice in Hinnom Valley (Ezekiel 16:20-21), judicial murders, prophets killed (Matthew 23:37). Rather than hidden shame, these crimes were committed openly ('upon a rock'), often in religious contexts—making them sacrilege. The blood imagery culminates in Jesus's pronouncement: 'Upon you may come all the righteous blood shed on earth' (Matthew 23:35).
