

Ezekiel 29:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the land of Egypt shall be desolate and waste; and they shall know that I am the LORD: because he hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it.

Analysis

Egypt's desolation stems from Pharaoh's prideful claim 'the river is mine, and I have made it.' Attributing God's provision to human achievement is the essence of idolatry—making self the ultimate source and authority. Such pride necessitates divine correction through humbling circumstances. God opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble (James 4:6).

Historical Context

Egyptian theology deified Pharaoh and attributed national prosperity to Egyptian gods and human wisdom. This worldview denied Yahweh's sovereignty over creation and history. Egypt's fall would expose their theological error.
