

Ezekiel 32:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Whom dost thou pass in beauty? go down, and be thou laid with the uncircumcised.

Analysis

Whom dost thou pass in beauty? sarcastically challenges Egypt's pride. You think you're special, but you're not—many before you have fallen. Go down, and be thou laid with the uncircumcised commands Egypt's descent among pagans. Uncircumcised was a term of contempt from Hebrew perspective, indicating those outside God's covenant. Egypt, who considered herself superior, will be buried among those she despised. Proud distinctions don't survive death. Self-perceived superiority means nothing when judgment comes. All face the same fate without God.

Historical Context

Egypt prided herself on civilization and culture, viewing surrounding peoples as barbarous. Yet in death, these distinctions vanish. Egypt joins the uncircumcised pagan nations in Sheol, her superiority revealed as meaningless. This demolishes human pride—all our distinctions, achievements, and status mean nothing in death without right relationship with God.
