

Ezekiel 37:26

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Moreover I will make a covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them: and I will place them, and multiply them, and will set my sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore.

Analysis

"Moreover I will make a covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them: and I will place them, and multiply them, and will set my sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore." The "covenant of peace" is the New Covenant established through Christ's blood (Hebrews 13:20). The promise of God's sanctuary dwelling among His people finds ultimate fulfillment in Immanuel (God with us) and the church as God's temple (1 Corinthians 3:16). The "everlasting covenant" guarantees permanent relationship—God will never divorce His people. This is covenant faithfulness: God keeps promises eternally.

Historical Context

Previous covenants were conditional (Mosaic) or temporarily administered (Abrahamic). The New Covenant is both eternal and effectually maintained by God. Christ's incarnation fulfilled "sanctuary in the midst of them"—God dwelling with His people. Pentecost extended this through the Spirit's indwelling. The new creation will consummate it: "The tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them" (Revelation 21:3). What Ezekiel prophesied (587 BC), the gospel fulfills and glorifies.
