

Ezekiel 38:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Thus will I magnify myself, and sanctify myself; and I will be known in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the LORD.

Analysis

God declares His purpose in defeating Gog: 'Thus will I magnify myself, and sanctify myself; and I will be known in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the LORD.' The verbs 'magnify' (hitgadilti, הִתְגַּדֵּלְתָּי) and 'sanctify' (hitqaddishti, הִתְקַדֵּשְׁתָּי) are reflexive, showing God vindicates His own greatness and holiness. The purpose: universal recognition—'many nations' will 'know that I am the LORD.' This fulfills the recognition formula repeated throughout Ezekiel. God orchestrates history to reveal His character and authority. Even the defeat of enemies serves this revelatory purpose. The judgment on Gog (representing forces opposing God's kingdom) demonstrates that no power can ultimately resist the LORD. This assures believers that all enemies will be defeated and God's glory universally acknowledged.

Historical Context

Gog of Magog (likely representing eschatological enemies from the north) will invade Israel in the latter days (38:8, 16) but be supernaturally defeated (38:19-23, 39:1-6). The prophecy's details have generated extensive interpretation—some see ancient fulfillment, others see future eschatological fulfillment. Revelation 20:8 applies Gog/Magog imagery to final rebellion before eternal state. The core truth: God will defeat all opposition and vindicate His holiness before all nations. This encourages the faithful remnant that despite present opposition and apparent enemy strength, God will triumph decisively and gloriously. His ultimate purpose is self-revelation—all will recognize His lordship.
