

Ezekiel 41:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The door posts, and the narrow windows, and the galleries round about on their three stories, over against the door, cieled with wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were covered;

Analysis

---

The door posts, and the narrow windows, and the galleries round about on their three stories—the architectural elements combine function and beauty. The challonot atumot (חַלּוֹנוֹת אֲטֻמוֹת, narrow/recessed windows) provided light while maintaining privacy and security, allowing illumination without exposure to profane gaze.

Cieled with wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows—the Hebrew sechuphe etz (שְׁחֻפֵּה עֵץ, paneled with wood) recalls Solomon's temple's cedar and cypress paneling (1 Kings 6:15). Such costly adornment demonstrates that God deserves humanity's finest craftsmanship and materials. The church, as God's temple, should likewise pursue excellence in worship while remembering that true beauty is spiritual holiness (1 Peter 3:3-4).

Historical Context

Ancient temple architecture used narrow windows for security and climate control. Wood paneling in arid regions was extremely expensive, imported from Lebanon. The vision's lavish detail emphasizes God's worthiness of supreme honor.

Study Questions

1. How do you balance external excellence in worship with internal spiritual authenticity?
2. What does the costly adornment of God's dwelling place teach about giving Him your best rather than your leftovers?
