

Ezekiel 45:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

This is the oblation that ye shall offer; the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of wheat, and ye shall give the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of barley:

Analysis

This is the oblation that ye shall offer—The terumah (תְּרוּמָה, "contribution" or "heave offering") consists of grain: the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of wheat... and... barley. This specifies a tax rate of 1/60th (one-sixth of an ephah per homer, since an ephah is one-tenth of a homer). Unlike oppressive royal taxation (1 Samuel 8:15 warns of 10% seizure), this modest tribute supports temple worship voluntarily given by covenant people.

The Hebrew construction emphasizes participation: "ye shall offer" (tarimu) is not royal confiscation but worshipful contribution. Wheat and barley—staple grains representing basic sustenance—being offered acknowledges God's provision of daily bread. This prefigures Jesus's teaching to pray "give us this day our daily bread" (Matthew 6:11) and His self-identification as "the bread of life" (John 6:35). The fraction (1/60th) is manageable, allowing joyful giving rather than grudging compliance.

Historical Context

Israel's monarchy had imposed crushing taxation to fund royal luxury and military campaigns (1 Kings 12:4). Ezekiel's vision reforms taxation, making it temple-focused rather than palace-focused, and proportionally light (1.67% compared to the tithe's 10%). This redistribution prioritizes worship over royal aggrandizement.

Study Questions

1. How does the light burden of this offering contrast with oppressive taxation, and what does that reveal about God's governance?
2. In what ways is offering our 'daily bread' to God an act of faith in His provision?
