

Hebrews 11:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts: and by it he being dead yet speaketh.

Analysis

---

Abel offered 'a more excellent sacrifice than Cain' (Genesis 4:3-5), demonstrating faith. The quality difference showed Abel understood God's requirement of blood sacrifice for sin, while Cain brought mere produce. 'By it he obtained witness that he was righteous'—God testified to his righteousness by accepting his sacrifice. Though dead, Abel's faith 'yet speaketh,' testifying that faith pleases God and the way to God is through blood sacrifice.

Historical Context

Abel's sacrifice predates the Mosaic law by millennia, showing that the principle of substitutionary blood atonement has always been God's plan. The first biblical martyr died at the hands of unbelieving religious activity.
