

Hebrews 2:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip.

Analysis

The Greek 'prosechein' (pay attention) introduces the first of five warning passages in Hebrews. The maritime metaphor 'lest we drift away' (pararryomen) pictures a ship drifting from its mooring due to neglect. If the law given through angels demanded strict obedience, how much more the salvation declared by the Lord Himself? This establishes a 'lesser to greater' argument central to Hebrews.

Historical Context

Jewish tradition (reflected in Acts 7:53, Galatians 3:19) held that angels mediated the Mosaic law at Sinai. First-century Jewish Christians faced pressure to abandon Christianity and return to Judaism, making this warning particularly urgent.
