

Hebrews 3:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God.

Analysis

The universal principle stated—every house has a builder—leads to the conclusion that God built all things. Since Christ is identified as the builder (verse 3) and God is the builder of all, Christ's deity is implicitly affirmed. This is a logical argument from creation to Creator, from effect to cause.

Historical Context

This reasoning parallels John 1:3 and Colossians 1:16 in affirming Christ's role in creation. It answers Jewish objections by using a rabbinic-style argument from the lesser to the greater.
