

Hebrews 6:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For the earth which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them by whom it is dressed, receiveth blessing from God:

Analysis

An agricultural metaphor: land receiving rain and producing useful crops 'receives blessing from God.' The rain represents God's gracious provision (gospel preaching, Spirit's work), and the expected response is fruitfulness. Reformed theology sees good works as evidence of true conversion, not its cause. The passive 'receives blessing' indicates God's sovereign distribution of favor, yet the land's productivity is essential.

Historical Context

Agricultural metaphors were common in Jewish wisdom literature. Jesus used similar imagery (Matthew 13, John 15), which would be familiar to the readers. Rain blessing good soil was a sign of covenant faithfulness in Deuteronomy.

Study Questions

1. What 'fruit' should result from receiving the 'rain' of gospel truth and the Spirit's work?
2. How does this metaphor challenge the idea that professing faith without transformation is genuine?
