

Hebrews 7:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For the law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope did; by the which we draw nigh unto God.

Analysis

The law 'made nothing perfect' (Greek 'etēleiōsen ouden') - it couldn't complete salvation or perfect consciences (9:9). But there is 'a bringing in of a better hope' through which 'we draw near to God.' The contrast is stark: law achieved nothing vs. hope provides access. This 'better hope' is Christ Himself (1 Timothy 1:1), whose priesthood grants what law couldn't - direct access to God. Reformed theology sees justification by faith as replacing failed law-keeping.

Historical Context

The inability to 'draw near' under the old covenant is shown in the temple structure - only the high priest could enter the Most Holy Place, and only once yearly. Christ's priesthood tears the veil, opening access for all believers.

Study Questions

1. How does Christ as our 'better hope' provide access to God that the law never could?

2. What does it mean practically that you can 'draw near to God' directly through Christ?
