

Hebrews 7:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death:

Analysis

The Levitical priesthood required 'many priests' because 'they were not suffered to continue by reason of death.' Physical death constantly necessitated new priests. This limitation revealed the temporary, inadequate nature of the old covenant priesthood. The succession of priests pointed to the need for an eternal priest.

Historical Context

From Aaron to the temple's destruction in 70 AD, an unbroken succession of high priests served. Each one eventually died and required replacement, demonstrating the system's inherent weakness.
